Mia's First Garden

Mia lived in a tall apartment building in the city. She had never had a garden because there was no yard. One spring day, her grandfather gave her a small box of seeds. Mia put some soil in an old flowerpot and planted the seeds by the window. Every morning, she watered them carefully so they would grow big and strong. After two weeks, tiny green leaves came out. Mia was so excited that she ran to show her grandfather. "Now you have your own garden," he said with a smile.
